

County: Report storm damage

→ Local Scene, 1

Arbet will be assisted at the tryouts by coaches from Sobrato and Westmont High Schools, Gavilan College, ex-players and local youth football coach Michelle Farias.

Tryouts will be held on Feb. 25 at Live Oak High School, 1505 East Main Ave., with registration starting at 7:30am and introductions at 8:30am. The cost is $65 on Feb. 25 and $50 with early registration on the team website. On the day of the tryout, cash only with no checks or credit cards accepted.

The Panthers will take 40 players to training camp in early March with the final roster trimmed to 25 before the regular season opener against Arizona at the SAP Center on March 26, says the press release.

Report damages to property that occurred during winter storms

The January winter storms brought widespread heavy rain, flooding and strong winds to Santa Clara County causing damages including flooding and mudslides across the region. The County of Santa Clara continues to gather damage information from residents for submission to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in an effort to help community members recover from the extreme weather event.

The County of Santa Clara is accepting self-reported damage estimates of properties that occurred between Dec. 27 to Jan. 31 due to the winter storms.

"The County is reaching out to our partners and community members to gather any additional damage estimate information that we have not received to date," said Dana Reed, director of the Office of Emergency Management. "We have also requested an extension through CalOES to submit additional damage reported."

Community members are encouraged to self-report property damage estimates by going to PrepareSCo.org/Flood and taking the damage estimate survey or by calling the County's Winter Storm Emergency Response and Recovery hotline at 408.808.7772.

The self-reporting period will end on Feb. 23 at 11:59pm.

SOUTH COUNTY STUDENTS DEBATE INTERNATIONAL ISSUES

STAFF REPORT

Middle and high school students from six schools in four counties joined their peers at Mount Madonna School (MMS) for its inaugural regional Model United Nations (Model UN or MUN) conference on Feb. 11.

The theme of the conference, "Climate Justice for All: Addressing Inequality," had students debating global issues from the perspective of their adopted countries, including sustainable tourism, women in climate leadership and green technology transfer to less developed countries. The student delegates spent four hours over the course of the day drafting solutions to these issues, working in groups and then individually through formal debate.

"Doing Model UN has made me much more confident and a lot less nervous talking in front of larger audiences," said MMS sixth-grader Emma Killough.

"I enjoyed learning more about MUN at the conference and speaking for my country to support my committee's cause," said MMS student Nolan McKibbin, who received the "Best Delegate" award in the committee focusing on sustainable tourism.

Participants also included students from Ann Sobrato High School in Morgan Hill, as well as Brownell Academy Middle School in Gilroy.

The student organizing team from Mount Madonna School, Moreland Notre Dame, Santa Cruz Montessori and Stevenson School in Pebble Beach kicked off the opening ceremony by inviting keynote speaker Jackie McCloud, sustainability chief for the City of Watsonville, to address students about the local impact and challenges of climate change, particularly in light of recent flooding in the Pajaro Valley.

Lisa Martin, director of the lower school and the MUN coordinator at Mount Madonna School, then awarded longtime Watsonville High School educator and MUN advisor Ron Jones with an award recognizing his more than 30-year contribution to the development of MUN in the Pajaro Valley.

"As we start the process of relaunching MUN in the region after almost two decades of absence," Martin told the audience, "we would like to recognize and thank Ron Jones, history teacher, MUN director extraordinaire, a legend at Watsonville High School and wonderful human being for his enduring contributions to youth in Watsonville."
